Letters from the Library

The library has a presence... a web presence that is! So, check out the new Gualala Arts Library – GAL – web page at <http://www.gualalaarts.org/Groups/Library.html>. Thanks to the staff at Gualala Arts for creating the page.

One of the most extensive and well used sections of the GAL is the textile section. The primary contributors to this collection are the Pacific Piecemakers Quilt Guild – PPQG – members. Currently, there are over 360 books related to quilting, covering everything from traditional blocks, to contemporary piecing, to making innovative art quilts. If you're a beginning textile artist, you will find a wealth of information on techniques, such as machine piecing, appliqué, embroidery, surface design, dyeing, etc., by nationally and internationally known quilters. If you are an experienced quilter, then the library is the place to come for inspiration. In fact, the PPQG's challenge for 2008 is "I Found It in the Library"! To find out more about fabric arts, visit the GAL!

If you have suggestions for improving our library, please contact Sharon Nickodem at 884-9611.

New Equipment Makes Workshops and Meetings Even Better

With a new video camera, it is possible for all the class to conveniently, and comfortably, see each stroke of the teacher's hand while doing a demonstration. Here Fred Graff shows his world-famous techniques in watercolor to a packed audience. Eighteen participants could never surround the easel close enough to see the whole process, but now with the big screen monitor and instant-play camera each person has the perfect view without getting a crick in the neck or backache from standing.

We are in the process of also adding instant web-cam facilities so state and federal organizations can hold their meetings here while broadcasting their sessions directly to their websites as required by law. The difficult we have done; the impossible will take a little longer.
